The second Berkeley T60

This T60 came to light on a motor cycle run around Evesham I spotted it in a back garden,
It was stripped out, less its engine as seen, but I found its wheels and suspension parts in the chicken run house.

It actually belonged to a lady who had bought it as a project and planed to rebuild and use it, years ago.
Engine was never with it and the rebuild project never started.

Some thing odd about its big Moon eye light apertures don’t you think

Next to the chicken run find.

The body condition was very bad, but I did sell it on through, after robbing out the bits I needed.

Got £500 as a bare shell with V5 in an advert placed in the BEC publication.

Buyer paid with out looking at it.

So just the V5 and number plate might have been worth something to him.

Just can't recall the registration detail or who it was I sold it to.

It must have been a later car or a BITSA as the front end had the cut outs for internal door hinges, but had never had them fitted.

Internal hinge apertures in front end – not used.

No idea of the registration now, but it became a donor with most of the front end mechanical parts going onto my next project.

So could well be running about again with a Mini engine in it.
